WU-HAN WEDGE.

Forces Now Take Complete Possession of Wuhu. NANKING UNITS DISARMED.

Another Breach in the Nationalist Ranks.

GEN. TANG ON THE WARPATH.

Wuhu, less than 100 miles from Nanking, is now completely in the hands of the Wu-Han faction, states a Chinese cable received to-day. For several weeks, the Wu-Han faction of the Nationalist Party has been inserting a wedge into the territory held by their confreres of Nanking. Wu-Han troops have been concentrating at the Yangtsze port of Wuhu, which is above Nanking. Nanking units have been disarmed and Nanking officials have been replaced by Wu-Han Picquets armed with machine The majority of it, he said, was vantage on the walls and retore

Another despatch is that the remaining troops of the Nanking at Pootung works still continues. armies at and near Wuhu have now all gone down-river to Nanking, immediately crossing to Pukow, on the north bank, to reinforce the garrison holding the railway against the Northerners.

The "Industrial and Commercial Daily Press" ("Kung Sheung Yat Po") reports that General Tang Seng-chi, commander-inchief at Hankow, has given orders for a military headquarters to be established at Wuhu.

Meanwhile, the Wu-Han faction has shown further dissatisfaction with the peace conference proceedings at Nanking, finding fault with the substitution of the fourth plenary session by an extraordinary session of delegates.

Queen's Road West. A woman living on the first floor of No. 588 approached the first accused and asked him how much it would cost to fit certain lights in her flat. They agreed upon a figure, and two days later the three accused went to the woman's flat and fitted the required lights which were connected with Mr. Ng's meter. This was discovered by Sergeant Whant and a Chinese detective when visited the place on September 19 and examined Mr. Ng's meter as the result of a telephone message. They then questioned the woman tenant of the first floor of No. 588,

HONG KONG TIDE.

The tide-table given below has been obtained by aid of the Tidepredicting Machine, which includes 40 components for the better prediction of tides, from the result of the analysis of the tidal observations, taken at the Kaulung tidal observatory under the direction of Dr. Doberck during the years 1887, 1888, & 1889.

-The times and heights are given for Kaulung; but they may be used for the Victoria Naval yard and Aberdeen, the differences being very small.

The times of high-and lowwater must not be considered to coincide with the times of slackwater and change of current, the two phenomena being quite distinct.

LOCAL SOCIETY OPENS SEASON.

LECTURE BY MR. J. RUSSELL

The Hong Kong Lodge The Theosephical Society opened its Autumn Lecturing Season, on Sunday evening at the lounge at Lane Crawford's. Mr. John Russell, the Vice-President, with Mr. David Gubbay, Past-Vice-President, acting as chairman, gave a public lecture on "The Theosophical Society," which was preceded by a song by Miss M. Russell.

The lecturer said that the Theosophical Society was founded in New. York City in 1875, and has since spread all over the world. As a movement for the helping of man along spiritual lines, it has for its true founders certain great spiritual teachers, who devised this means of reawakening the East and awakening the West to the knowledge of the springs of spiritual truth that lay hidden in Eastern philosophy. LABOUR IN CHINA.

In a recent issue of the "International Labour Review" publication of the International Labour Office), a writer deals with an interesting phase of the transition to modern industrial methods which is taking place in China. Modern industrialism, he states, has brought the workers better conditions of employment in certain respects, such as that of workshop hygiene, but, on the other hand, it has introduced night work. Wages are very low in both the old and the new systems. The transition in China appears to be taking place much more sharply than was the case in the rise of industrialism in Britain. The same ill results are following it. The old Chinese industry operaates on the basis of the family system, even in factories where large numbers are employed. Family relationships extend far. Every Chinese is bound by the fundamental moral principles of his country to assist and protect his children, grandchildren, nephews, grand-nephews and so on. To a lesser degree mutual aid extends also to friends and neighbours as, for instance, to members of the same street guild. The Chinese employer thus naturally tends to surround himself with members of his family, even with with persons known to him. This system of recruiting labour is the determining factor in the spirit of harmony which rules in Chinese undertakings under the old indusnothing to distinguish him from them, wither in clothes or in general demeanour. under him. The result is that a degree of intimacy exists in Chinese factories under the old system such as is unknown in any other country.

Food is eaten as in a family circle, employers, workers and apprentices sharing the same pittance; they share the same housing conditions, however miserable these may be. In spite of his conditions of living, the Chinese worker is happy. Contended with little; but conscious of his equality with all around him, he seeks no betterment of his lot so long as no economic unheaval comes to change his life's habitual course. Under the modern industrial system, however, this intimacy and familiarity disappear. difference extends not only to the size of undertakings, but also to methods of organisation.

The workers employed are no longer relatives, neighbours or friends, but an unstable body of labour with no personal contact except with the foreman recruiting it. The foreman arranges for A KOWLOON the payment of wages, acting as intermediary between the employer and his staff, and often exploits the wretchedness of the OUTLAWING WAR. LEAGUE ADOPTS POLISH RESOLUTION.

BRITAIN'S ENDORSEMENT.

London, Yesterday. The Polish resolution outlawing war was unanimously adopted at the League of Nations Assemranged programme will be repeated bly at Geneva yesterday. Lord Onslow, the British delegate, expressed the view that the resolution defined clearly the main object of the League and marked a distinct step forward.

"We recommend three things," he said, "namely action by the League, systematic preparation of League machinery, and action by individual states."

The League must use its influence in promoting co-ordinate agreements regarding arbitration and security. This would always have the support and goodwill of Great Britain.

It was shown by discussions that all were imbued with the same idea, and he hoped the preparatory commission would press forward with vigour and that by next year great strides would have been taken in the process of disarmament, so that a really important contribution would be made to the League's first duty. which was the maintenance of peace as the most important problem the League had to face.-

British Wireless Service. Russia Not to Participate. Geneva, Yesterday. M. Chicherin has informed the League Secretariat that Russian will not participate in the forthcoming International Conference at Geneva, which will aim at the removal of import and export prohibitions and restrictions.

In the Assembly, this afternoon, Dr. Stresemann enthusiastically favoured disarmament for the solid establishment of peace. Lord Onslow welcomed the Polish resolution outlawing wars of aggression, and hoped that by this time next year great strides would have, been taken in the direction of disarmament.

M. Paul Boncour strongly advocated an extension of systems of agreements, like Locarno and the application of the principle of the Geneva Protocol.-Reuter.

The pleasing pastime of pingpong is, we are told, looking up again. As an evidence of this it has been gleefully emphasised that the game — I suppose one may call it a game whatever one thinks of its merits—was a new feature of the Far Eastern Olympic Games at Shanghai. This fact, to my mind, in no way betokens the increased popularity of verse criticism towards the organisers of the Games. Whilst broad jump. they so carefully included pingpong, and nobly threw the championship open to all entrants, they just as carefully ignored boxing, wrestling, hockey, rowing, and several other truly manly sports.

Although the home cricket season is done with the following comment by a Singapore writer is interesting in consequence of the very difficult matter of finding a satisfactory points scoring method for championship games. He writes:-

Lancashire may be said to have won the championship this year on the new system, of awarding 8 and 5 points in respect of results on the first innings of uncompleted matches. With last year's system of 3 and 1 points Notts and Lancashire would have tied. The points awarded by the new system in respect of the first innings results in unfinished matches were 70 in the case of Lancashire, and 52 in the case of Notts. There is a strong body of opinion at home against the award of any points whatever in unfinished games, the view being held that a side having already established a first innings lead is often content to concenfeat at all gosts. This is not the only criticism of the present system of scoring in the championship, nor can any system be free from criticism while the counties play a varying number of matches—this season, for example, whereas Lanphire and Notts played 28 games each, Middlesex and Derbyshire played only 20. If the M.C.C., instead of manipulating figures, made a firm effort in the direction of instituting a programme in which all the counties played the same number of matches against the same opponents, the competition could be contested along lines in which there could be little real cause for discon-
